INSIDE GEORGIA FOOTBALL

...WITH LORAN SMITH

To revisit the football turmoil that swirled around Athens, Georgia and Auburn, Alabama in late November 1980, you might think that Armageddon was at hand in that part of the football world.

Auburn, beset by football shortcomings, was ready to hire an established football coach and dangled the athletic directorship as an incentive even though the Tigers had a respected administrator, Lee Hayley, in place. Unfortunately, for Hayley, there was a groundswell to offer both jobs to heighten the opportunity that rendered the incumbent irrelevant. A slap in the face to a seasoned administrator who was a loyal Auburn alumnus.

The man of the hour for the War Eagle constituency became Vince Dooley. In Laramie, Wyoming, 1,480 miles from "the loveliest village on the plains," Pat Dye had just fielded a 6-5 team as he began a rebuilding program at a place where there was but one redeeming positive for him – it was a hunter's/fisherman's paradise.

If there were a better fit for this former Bulldog All-American lineman and fundamental football coach than a practice field, it would have been in the Great Outdoors. He could have been a year-round model for "Field & Stream."

However, while Wyoming has had some peak times with a handful of "name" coaches passing through including Bowden Wyatt, Phil Dickens, Bob DeVaney and Fred Akers, it is not anchored in a hotbed of football talent. Killing a trophy elk and boating a foot-long cutthroat trout or kokanee salmon of the same size is a nice perk for coaching in the Cowboy State, but Dye was restless to find a better coaching job.

All bets were on Dooley taking over at his alma mater. With Pat's Bulldog pedigree and his coaching experience – nine years as an assistant under Bear Bryant at Alabama, six years as a head coach at

INSIDE GEORGIA FOOTBALL

East Carolina and one year at Wyoming – would Dye not be the perfect choice to coach football where he played as an undergraduate? As the whispers gained traction, there was alumni sentiment for Dye to succeed Dooley, but when Vince decided to stay put, speculation about the Auburn job went viral.

While he had represented Alabama with prodigious passion in the cross-state rivalry, Pat knew that even with Bear Bryant's success in the rivalry that Auburn "was a place where you could win big." He went after the Auburn position with rock-jawed resolve. He got the job. It upset his former coach for whom he had ceaseless respect. Bryant called Pat with this conversational opener, "I thought I raised you better than this."

When he met Bryant for the first time in late November, 1981, he came with a fatherly pre-game greeting which included a Bear hug. Pat told his former boss, "You can hug on me all you want, but I want you to know we ain't scared of you."

Bryant backed off and said, "Yeah, I know, and that is what worries me." In their second meeting a year later, Auburn came from behind with a late Bo Jackson touchdown to win 23-22. That ended a Bama winning streak of nine games.

There were two concerns that Bryant had regarding his main rival hiring one of his vaunted assistants who taught fundamental football and was an indefatigable recruiter. He knew Pat would be a formidable adversary in the annual Iron Bowl, but what was most telling was that he knew he could not keep up with his protégé when it came to recruiting. Age was a telling factor. Bryant's best years were behind him; Pat's were in front of him.

Bryant retired from coaching following the Liberty Bowl game, and Pat went on to a successful career which ended up with him being elected to the College Football Hall of Fame in 2005. At Auburn he won four SEC titles (1983-87-88-89). In 2005, Auburn named the playing field at Jordan-Hare Stadium, "Pat Dye Field."

At Georgia, he and Fran Tarkenton were freshmen in 1957, Dye an All-State guard from Richmond Academy and Tarkenton, an All-State quarterback at Athens High. They were the leaders who brought about an end to irrelevancy that had plagued the Bulldogs in the fifties. Pat made All-America as he and Tarkenton led the Bulldogs to the 1959 SEC championship, the surprise team of the league.

It is interesting that Dye and Vince Dooley swapped loyalties – outstanding players who crossed the Chattahoochee River to become Hall of Fame coaches, Vince at Georgia, Pat at Auburn.

"Pat and I enjoyed each other's company and compared notes about our green thumbs," Dooley said. "He came to Athens to tour my gardens, and I went to Notasulga to see his Japanese Maples. Pat was a very sound, fundamental football coach and a tough competitor."

Pat could be the difference in a game as was the case in the 1960 game with Georgia Tech in Athens. In a close, hard fought encounter, Pat, lining up at defensive end, blocked an extra point attempt and a field goal attempt with Georgia winning 7-6 to cap a four-year winning streak in the series.

In my mind's eye I will always see him walking on the field pre-game in his Auburn tie and baseball cap. His pace was measured and deliberate which reflected he was in his element. He was where he belonged.

When Auburn and Georgia met up in November, he would amble over to the Bulldog bench to join our pre-game show. Out cues, meant nothing to him. He was always going to finish what was on his mind, in his own way as colorful as his mentor, the Bear.

He worked hard, he played hard and had many rewarding afternoons on the playing fields of the SEC. Few enjoyed life more than this one-time Bulldog aficionado who found happiness in another team's colors. Pat Dye was a perfect fit for the Auburn constituency.

They miss him, but his friends in Red and Black, on the east side of the Chattahoochee, miss him, too.

GEORGIA BULLDOGS GAME BREAKDOWN

with GEORGIA LEGENDS

DEEP SOUTH'S OLDEST RIVALRY

For the first time since 1936, Georgia and Auburn will renew the Deep South's Oldest Rivalry outside of the month of November. The No. 4 Bulldogs play host to the No. 7 Tigers Saturday, Oct. 3 for the home opener. Georgia has won eight of the past 10 meetings and leads the all-time series 60-56-8. Last week at home, Auburn defeated Kentucky 29-13 while the Bulldogs went on the road and registered a 37-10 win over Arkansas. Georgia is 4-0 in home openers under Kirby Smart.

SUCCESSFUL FOOD2KIDS SNACK DRIVE

The Bulldogs second project of the “Dawgs For Pups” initiative was called the Food2Kids Snack Drive. The Food Bank of Northeast Georgia reported an 80 percent increase in the demand over its 2019 numbers, and with September being Hunger Action Month, food bank representatives stressed the need for any help in this arena. The Bulldog football team along with several other Georgia athletic teams and staff participated to make it a success. Through September, the Bulldogs and donors have given more than 30,000 pounds of food to the Food Bank.

‘DAWGS FOR PUPS’ BEGINS TO HELP AREA STUDENTS

The Georgia football team kicked off its initiative called “Dawgs For Pups” in early September by pledging to raise money for WiFi hotspots for Clarke County students. The donations will help support the more than 1,000 families in Clarke County who do not have the internet access needed for online learning. For only $20, donors can sponsor a family’s unlimited high-speed data plan for a month. For $60, donors can sponsor a family’s WiFi for the fall semester. This project already has raised close to $75,000.

CHAMPIONSHIP FLASHBACK

40-FOR-80 THE SWEETEST SEASON – TCU GAME

Just like Georgia so badly needed the 42-0 blowout of Texas A&M following the 16-15 knee-knocking Knoxville victory over Tennessee to start the season, the Bulldogs were in dire need of another big win on the heels of a pulse-pounding 20-16 triumph over Clemson. At 3-0, the Bulldogs were ranked 10th nationally. The Horned Frogs of Texas Christian University, like the Aggies, a member of the Southwest Conference, came in with a record of 0-2 with a pair of close losses. Auburn edged the Horned Frogs 10-7 in Fort Worth, and TCU fell to SMU 17-14 in Dallas.

It was the first meeting between the two teams since the Orange Bowl on January 1, 1942, Georgia's first ever postseason appearance, which was highlighted by a record-setting performance from the ensuing season's Heisman Trophy winner Frank Sinkwich in a 40-26 Bulldogs victory.

Flash forward to 1980 and a breezy, partly sunny 73 degree Sanford Stadium Saturday with a 1:30 kick
